Australia At War, 1939-1945

John Robertson

2014 marks the centenary of military aviation in Australia. To commemorate this I am writing a five-part series on the key stages of the RAAF: The Early Years â€“ 1914 to 1939 (World War One and the interwar years), World War Two: 1939 to 1945, the Cold War begins and the Korean War: 1945 to 1953, South East Asian ConflictsÂ  A Brief History of the Royal Australian Air Force: World War Two â€“ 1939 to 1945. 2014 marks the centenary of military aviation in Australia. To commemorate this I am writing a five-part series on the key stages of the RAAF: The Early Years â€“ 1914 to 1939 Start by marking â€œInferno: The World at War, 1939-1945â€ as Want to Read: Want to Read saving… Want to Read.Â From Burma to Australia to Egypt to India, he includes information and reflections from combatants on both sides and from all the arenas of the conflict. I finish this book with the same thought i’ve had all along: that this is how modern history should be written. Hastings has put together one of the most comprehensive, detailed, and moving books on the Second World War that i’ve ever read.Â Max Hastings, in Inferno: The World at War, 1939-1945, dives beneath the superficiality of objectivity to lay bare the cost of this, the most terrible war in human history. The events, their motivations, and ramifications, are placed in an intense and horrifying human context.
